Obi-Wan on Guitar: Episode III Video Mod

June 23, 2005

What if Obi-Wan Kenobi traded in his lightsaber for a Les Paul? Or imagine if Yoda chose to use the Force on a fierce set of drums? This Friday, June 24, be sure to tune into MTV2 for the season premiere of a show that combines the world of video games and music with "Video Mods."

By mixing some of today's most popular video games and characters with the latest music videos and artists, each episode of "Video Mods" represents a breakthrough in entertainment by providing an entirely new experience for music and video game fans alike.

For the premiere episode of this season's "Video Mods," the indie music darlings Franz Ferdinand's hit song "Take Me Out" is reconstructed with the Star Wars: Episode III Revenge of the Sith Video Game characters, featuring Obi-Wan and Mace Windu on guitar, Yoda on drums and Anakin taking lead vocals.

Other highlights of the show include Sum 41's "Pieces" overhauled with Destroy All Humans, Good Charlotte's "Predictable" with Darkwatch characters and My Chemical Romance's "I'm Not Okay (I Promise)" recreated with Death Jr. In addition, for the first time ever "Video Mods" will feature machinima -- Breaking Benjamin's "So Cold" music video based on Half-Life 2.

"The new season of 'Video Mods' is going to bring the worlds of music videos, animation and game development together in a completely inventive fashion," MTV2 Executive Producer Alex Coletti says. "By combining some of our audience's biggest passions, we're extending the life of some of the most popular video games and characters through the world of music and is representative of the type of programming that we strive for at MTV2."

In upcoming episodes, MTV2's "Video Mods" takes on videos from the Beastie Boys, Ciara, Yellowcard, Taking Back Sunday, and The Killers with games like NBA Street: Volume 3, Medal of Honor 3: European Assault, Dance Dance Revolution, Silent Hill, and Lineage II: the Chaotic Chronicle.
