Today's History:

In 1940, the Allied military evacuation from Dunkirk in France was completed. The evacuation was made possible by the work of the Royal Navy and French De France warships. The operation was known as “Operation Dynamo” and involved the rescue of over 338,000 Allied soldiers from the beaches of Dunkirk. The operation was considered a significant blow to the German military and helped to set the stage for the eventual Allied victory in World War II.

In 1982, President Ronald Reagan approved the formation of the U.S. Marine Corps 1st Special Operations Group (1st SOG). The unit was created to carry out unconventional warfare, special operations, and counterinsurgency operations. The 1st SOG was responsible for operations in Panama, Grenada, and El Salvador, among other locations.

In 1969, the United States military and other actions began the withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam. The withdrawal was part of the Nixon administration's policy of reducing American involvement in the Vietnam War and was a precursor to the eventual American withdrawal from Vietnam.

In 1989, President Bush declared a state of emergency in response to the rioting in Los Angeles following the acquittal of four police officers accused of beating a black man. The riots, known as the Los Angeles Riots, lasted for six days and resulted in widespread looting, fighting, and destruction.

In 1999, President Clinton signed the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). The agreement was designed to create a free trade area among the United States, Canada, and Mexico, and was intended to lower trade barriers and increase economic cooperation among the three countries.

In 2010, the U.S. military drawdown in Afghanistan began. The drawdown was part of the Obama administration's policy of reducing American forces in Afghanistan and was intended to focus on counterinsurgency operations.

In 2013, the U.S. military announced that it would begin to integrate women into all combat positions, allowing women to serve in any role that they are qualified to serve in. The announcement was part of the Obama administration's efforts to increase diversity and to expand opportunities for women in the military.

Bill O'Reilly's Comments on Paris Hilton:

One of the problems with demanding that the feds consider immigration law is that you will never get a law. You want to stop poor people from legally coming to the land of the free? That is not something you and your fellow citizens will favor unless it is by illegal means, and then it will be ghastly and downright anti-Christian. We're already doing away with the free lunch. We might as well do away with the free country.

There are no heroes that need to be made. The feds are doing it all with help from the courts. The churches are doing it all with help from the law.

The USA is the place to go. The USA is the place to stay. There is no such thing as a ‘no’ in this country. It's all right. I've been told. That's how we got to be such a great country.

So, after Fox News caught me in the hallway and said, "You don't like immigrants very much, do you Bill?"

I gave my answer, which was, "I'm not a racist, I'm not an anti-immigrant. I'm an anti-illegal immigrant."

I don't know how they got away with the law.

If you take the law on immigration as a legal matter, then you're not going to get anywhere. You're going to get nowhere. It's a shell game.

The cardinals are right. John would probably be a better border agent. But, then again, the border patrol is pretty bad. They're not that good. They're not that good. They're not that good.

And the law comes under the Card on Human Rights.

The feds have the right to set the immigration laws. OK with you that we have pretty much put your own country on the world map to do the job?

And the people that do the job are the Border Patrol and their allies, the human rights groups, and the legal immigration groups.

And you know the Card is right. The liner in the country is right. The cardinals are right. And the law comes under the Card on Human Rights.
