In 2012, UB received a new five-year Federal Cyber Service Award from National Science Foundation to educate graduates and undergraduates in the area of Cyber Security and Information Assurance. Currently four students are in the program and in year 2013-14, we will admit four additional students. We provide support for two consecutive years in the BS/MS, MS and PhD programs and this program will continue until 2016.

Federal Cyber Service: Scholarship for Service (SFS) Program at NSF

National Science Foundation started the Federal Cyber Service program about 12 years ago as a means to increase the number of qualified students in the area of information assurance and computer security. The motivation was to build capacity in the U.S. higher education enterprise to deal with the shortage of skilled professionals in the IA and security fields at the various federal agencies. This is one of the high-profile programs started by NSF and during the past few years, universities took up the challenge and produced hundreds of scholars who are now working for the federal government. Through this award, UB will be in a position to contribute to this cause in the coming years.
